

TBA has always been committed to making barrier removal a priority in all its projects. We have designed access improvements in several building types including municipal buildings, public safety facilities, churches, schools, commercial buildings, private residences and multi-family and senior housing.

Our projects have included ramps, elevators, and fully reconfigured entries for the municipalities of Boston, Holbrook, Newton, Wareham as well as for state authorities. In a survey compiled for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts DCAM, TBA examined over sixty existing public safety facilities in Worcester County and outlined their ADA nonconformities. Also for DCAM, TBA has planned and designed access renovations for the 541,000 square foot Middlesex High Rise Courthouse in East Cambridge.

TBA believes "accessibility projects" do not need to be considered an after-the-fact fix to accommodate the minority of our population with special needs. Rather, "universal design" represents an opportunity to meet an important public purpose: to assure that all members of the public are fully respected and feel a genuine invitation into our public facilities.
